

Brussels backs the labour of Hercules to cut marine engine pollutants

Tuesday July 01 2003 - By David Tinsley

FURTHER details have emerged of a major research endeavour focusing on the development of new technological solutions to reduce the environmental impact of marine engines, due to start in January 2004 with European Union financial backing.